EUROPEAN DEATH TOLL NOW 88

THIRTY SHIPS SEND OUT DISTRESS CALLS WHEN ICE-TRAPPED

Gypsy Tribe Frozen To Death; Wolves Men- ace People

LONDON, Feb. 13. — The death toll from Europe's record-breaking cold wave mounted today with eighty-eight specific deaths since Saturday and many other deaths rumored in Roumania, Switzerland and Belgium.

The German battleships Schleswig-Holstein and Elsass were sent into the Baltic Sea again last night to answer distress calls from thirty steamers trapped by ice.

A gypsy tribe of thirty-four men, women and children were reported frozen to death near Lublin, Poland, where they had camped, and five smugglers were buried in an avalanche of snow and ice as they operated near the Brenner pass.

Sixteen hundred passengers were aboard two large ferries also ice-bound in the Great Belt Channel between Fyen and Zealand, Denmark. An ice breaker which was sent to the rescue was drifted in the ice with its propeller broken.

The harbors of Varna and Burgas, Bulgaria, were closed by ice in the Black Sea an official announcement at Sofia said. Army field kitchens at Vienna began distribution of 30,000 cups of tea and loaves of bread to the poor yesterday.

The "Blue Danube" at Vienna had become white today. A hundred passengers aboard a Simpson Line train running between Vevy, Switzerland and Montreux escaped injury narrowly when the rails were cracked by frost and the train left the track.

Many trains in Roumania were buried beneath the snow. Engineers and firemen were frozen to death.

Wolves, their food supplies cut off by the cold, came out of the wilderness of Hungary in increasing numbers to menace travellers along the highways.

A coal shortage threatened Berlin today and the price of food was rising.

The liner Leviathan was late at Southampton and sent a radiogram that it was battling heavy seas and a snow storm.

Many thrilling sea rescues occurred off the English coast where shipping was disrupted extensively and many small vessels went aground during snow storms.

Weather officials said it was the coldest since 1871. In London several districts were isolated by snowdrifts thirteen feet high.

A hearth with its coffin was abandoned by mourners beside a road when they found it impossible to reach the cemetery because of snow.

MOUNTAINOUS SEAS MENACE SHIPPING

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 13.—Gales piled up mountainous seas in the Pacific today, adding further to the anxiety over the safety of four vessels.

The freighter Alloway called for aid yesterday and the Montauk rushed to her assistance.

The crew of the Alloway with the exception of one man whose identity was not known here, was removed to the Montauk.

The Montauk took the Alloway in tow but reported later that a violent storm had smashed the tow line. The two vessels separated together but neither was damaged seriously. The Alloway cast anchor.

The freighter Melyo Maru ran aground off Uma Island and was helpless. The coast guard cutter Chelander sped to the Melyo Maru's assistance and was standing by, unable to give aid because of the pounding waves.

NINETEEN HURT AS BUS HITS TRAILERS

HILLSDALE, Mich., Feb. 13.—Nineteen persons were injured when a Greyhound Lines bus crashed into two trucks towing trailers, near Jonesville, Mich., last night. The injured were brought to hospitals here.

Michigan state troopers said the accident occurred when the bus, driven by George Bergeron of Detroit, came over the crest of a hill on highway No. 12 and crashed into the trucks and trailers which had stalled on the icy road.

The bus was enroute to Chicago. After striking the trucks it careened into a tree at the side of the road. Several passengers were knocked unconscious and the bus was badly damaged.

Lindbergh To Wed Miss Morrow

Daughter Of Ambassador To Mexico Is Engaged To "Lone Eagle" After Romance Of Year; Wedding Date Not Set

MISS ANNE SPENCER MORROW

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 13. — Miss Anne Spencer Morrow, the quiet, home-loving girl who is to marry the world's most famous flyer, went about her normal life today ignoring the fact that the chief topic of discussion among millions of people was her romance with Col. Chas. A. Lindbergh.

Miss Morrow and her family, beyond the bare announcement of the engagement made yesterday by Ambassador and Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, indicated plainly that public curiosity was not to be satisfied.

Mexico City society was chiefly interested in the belief that the wedding would be held here, probably in the spring. The Morrows, however, gave no hint.

News that Col. Lindbergh, the taciturn, efficient idol of the air who was considered girl-shy, had become engaged to Miss Morrow, came as a complete surprise.

Ambassador Morrow summoned the press and issued the following statement: "Ambassador and Mrs. Morrow have announced the engagement of their daughter, Anne Spencer Morrow, to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh."

Ambassador Morrow would not amplify the statement, although he was obviously pleased to make it.

The girl who has won the heart of the man who has caused more feminine flutter than anyone in this age, not even excepting the Prince of Wales, seems ideally suited to one of Lindbergh's temperament.

Charles A. Lindbergh, tanned by nine days of flying in the tropics, returned to Miami today, completing the first round trip on the new Canal Zone air mail route.

At 9:58 a. m. E. S. T., he dipped the big Sikorsky plane to a pretty landing at Pan American Airport.

HAVANA, CUBA, Feb. 13.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, on the last leg of his return trip, left Miami at 7:23 a. m. today for Miami.

The flyer will deliver his load of Canal Zone mail at Miami, completing his pioneering round trip flight to Cristobal. Then he will fly to Washington and New York.

Lindbergh said he was going to New York to resume work for the Trans-Continental Air Transport Co. and gave no hint of when he expected to join his fiancée, Miss Anne Spencer Morrow, whose parents announced the engagement yesterday.

The flyer would not discuss his personal affairs in any way.

During the flight to Miami, Lindbergh said he will keep watch for an Amphibian plane reported down between Cuba and Florida. The Amphibian was said to have been privately owned, with a Lieut. Galloway aboard. Merritt also will look for the Amphibian on his way over.

Lindbergh, taking off from Camp Columbia Field, was accompanied by Col. John A. Hambleton, vice president of the Pan-American Airways, and H. T. Buskey, mechanic, who made the trip to the Canal Zone with him, and Col. John C. Schilt, U. S. marine corps, who joined the party at Managua as relief pilot.

Zone with him, and Col. John C. Schilt, U. S. marine corps, who joined the party at Managua as relief pilot.

She shares his dislike of ostentation and is of the studious, intellectual type. Miss Morrow is 22 and Lindbergh is 27. Her dark hair is unadorned and frames an attractive face with dark blue eyes. She is slender and about five feet four, reaching only to the shoulder of her tall husband-to-be.

Miss Morrow is quiet and self-contained, like her mother, she reads much and has learned Spanish fairly well, although she has spent only a few months in Mexico at various times.

Social and diplomatic functions have little attraction for the bride-to-be, and she appears in public only at the weekly receptions at the embassy, when she helps her mother pour tea. While in Mexico City she leads a tranquil existence.

Miss Morrow and Lindbergh have known one another a year and two months, and while their courtship could not be called "whirlwind," they have had comparatively little time together.

They met several times in the United States during the ensuing year and again last November, when Lindbergh flew here from the state of Chihuahua, where he spent several weeks hunting with Col. Alexander J. McNab, military attaché of the embassy.

Lindbergh stayed here ten days and, as usual, the public had little glimpse of his activities and did not note how much time he spent in Miss Morrow's company. Those who saw them at several entertainments at the embassy during Lindbergh's stay said they "didn't act like an engaged couple."

At the time, the rumors of their engagement were at their height, but embassy attaches, on Morrow's authority, denied them, saying the flyer and Miss Morrow were "merely good friends."

BATTLE OVER STATE BUILDING STARTED HOTLY IN ASSEMBLY

Morgan Bill Passes House; Rohe Bill Be- fore Senate

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 13.—The legislative battle over the proposed new state office was on in earnest today, with the house of representatives supporting one bill and the senate expected to rally to the support of another.

The Morgan bill, passed last yesterday by the house, was on its way to the senate. The Rohe bill, endorsed by the senate committee on buildings and public works and supported by Governor Cooper, was on the senate calendar and was expected to pass that body this afternoon.

The final outcome of the fight is uncertain but it is probable the two bills will wind up in a joint conference committee representing the two chambers, appointed to reconcile the differences.

The house, speaking through the vote of a majority of its membership, served notice that it is for an independent commission building bill, at the present, and is not controlled by Governor Myers Y. Cooper nor the Hamilton County delegation.

This was done when the office building measure sponsored by Rep. Gilbert Morgan, Cleveland, passed in the house by a vote of 74 to 49, despite the opposition of the house leadership and word laid through the Hamilton County delegation, that Governor Cooper opposed the bill and referred the measure pending in the senate, sponsored by Senator Robert L. Rohe, Tiffin.

The vote in the house was a defeat for the administration and a reputation of Hamilton County control.

As passed by the lower chamber, the Morgan bill provides for an office building located on Broad, High, State or Third Street, opposite the statehouse, on a site to be chosen by the commission composed of the governor, attorney general and state auditor.

FIND AGED RECLUSE MURDERED BY BLOWS FROM STICK OF WOOD

Motive For Attack Puz- zles Police; Was Not Robbed

CHILLICOTHE, O., Feb. 13.—A man who beat Marion Harper, aged recluse, to death with a stick of wood, was sought by police today.

Harper's body was found in his shack in Thacker Hollow, near Byers, yesterday. His neck had been broken and his skull was fractured.

No motive for the attack was learned although police believe the man was killed under the misapprehension that he had money secreted in the hut.

The body was found by a neighbor who said Harper was last seen alive Sunday. It is believed he was killed some time Monday.

Harper was eighty years old. His body was found lying on the floor. The neighbor, John Speakman, summoned Coroner W. H. Warren and Deputy Sheriff H. B. Warren who said the aged man's wrists also were cut.

The house was in disorder, indicating Harper had struggled with his assailant.

Harper was not robbed this time although several months ago he was robbed of $200.

MEASURE RETURNED FOR SENATE ACTION AFTER CHANGE MADE

Insurance Tax Cut De- layed Until Law Is Effective

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 13.—The Bender bill, reducing the tax on foreign insurance companies from three per cent to two and a half per cent, today was on its way back to the senate where it originated, for approval of amendments made by the house.

The bill was passed by the house last Thursday but the original vote was reconsidered Monday, amendments added and the measure approved.

As amended, the measure specifically provides that the three per cent tax rate applies to 1928 and during 1928 until such time as the reduction becomes effective as law. The amendments probably will be accepted by the senate.

The house also passed the Morgan state office building and the bill by Rep. George H. Roberts, Youngstown, making the Monday after Armistice Day a legal holiday when Nov. 11 falls on Sunday.

The senate adopted the resolution by Rep. L. W. Shepherd, Lima, providing for transfer to the Ohio division of the Daughters of the Confederacy of letters written by confederates held prisoner at Camp Chase, Columbus, during the Civil War, never mailed and now in the state library. The house has approved the resolution.

Twenty-eight new measures were introduced at yesterday's session, twenty-one in the house and seven in the senate, making a total of 441 thus far.

Virtual repeal of the McDonald compulsory appraisal bill is proposed by a bill by Rep. Bittinger, Ashland County.

Restaurants and barbecue places operating outside municipalities would be required to obtain state fire and health regulations, under a bill by Rep. Daniels, Highland County.

It would provide that all injuries received by workmen in the course of their employment or any disability caused by illness or disease arising out of or the result of such employment, shall be compensable under the compensation law.

Rep. Lear, Trumbull County sponsored a bill proposing to permit the state, cities and counties to use gasoline tax revenue which are now available only for road maintenance and repair, to finance protective devices at grade crossings.

The clerk of Portsmouth municipal court would be made an executive official under a bill by Miss Emma Crampton, Portsmouth. The clerk is now appointed by the municipal judge.

The "teachers' tenure" bill, introduced by Rep. Lester J. Abele, Cleveland, was reported back to the house by the house schools committee, without recommendation for passage.

All I. G. A. members within a sixty-mile radius of Xenia are invited, and many are expected to charter buses and special cars to bring them to this city for the affair. This is the first time the organization has held a meeting of this nature.

CRUISER BILL IS NOW SIGNED BY PRESIDENT

Signature Ends Contro- versy; 15 Ships Provided

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—President Coolidge signed the cruiser bill today authorizing construction of fifteen cruisers and one modern airplane carrier for the navy.

His signature to the legislation ended a controversy of more than a year on whether the U. S. needed additional fighting craft for its national defense.

Funds for starting work on six of the ships—cruisers—and the aircraft carrier will be appropriated probably before congress adjourns March 4.

The president signed the bill with little ceremony. He was alone in his office when he affixed his signature.

There was no official comment upon the signing of the measure.

The final obstacle in the path of the bill was removed at the White House conference this morning between the president, Vice-President-elect Curtis, Senator Robinson, Democratic leader and Senator Hale, chairman of the naval committee; Speaker Longworth, Republican leader Tilson of the house and Democratic leader Rep. Garrett.

Johnson and Stevens today were working on their plane—a ship once piloted by Lieut. John Macready in other altitude flights—and plan making another altitude attempt in a few days.

The two army flyers took off from Wright Field late yesterday. Their gasoline supply gave out and they were forced to land at Columbus. This automatically barred them from official recognition by the National Aeronautical Association whose rules specify landings must be made at the place where the plane took off.

The official altitude mark is 38,420 feet.

The flyers reported they ran into temperatures of seventy-six degrees below zero. They wore electrically heated gloves and goggles over face masks.

Capt. Stevens was suffering from frozen spots on his face when he landed but both he and Johnson declared they were not suffering seriously and added that they hope to make another attempt immediately.

One of the victims is expected to die.

The first explosion occurred about 7 a. m. followed almost immediately by a second.

The entire interior of the mixing room was wrecked.

Fire officials estimated damage at $5,000.

Overland officials declined to reveal the names of the injured workmen.

FAIRFIELD AIRMEN FORCED DOWN AFTER FUEL SUPPLY FAILS

Failure To Land At Take-Off Place Costs Record

DAYTON, O., Feb. 13.—The thrilling story of how they soared through clouds of ice crystals into an atmosphere 76 degrees below zero, was related today by Lieut. Harry Johnson and Capt. A. W. Stevens after an unsuccessful attempt to shatter the world's altitude plane record.

The airmen were cheated of a possible record when lack of fuel forced them to land at Norton Field, Columbus, after they attained an altitude of 39,000 feet. They intend to make another attempt in a few days.

"Yesterday's flight," Capt. Stevens told the United Press, "proved the age-old contention of science that clouds of ice crystals are encountered in rarified atmosphere. We passed through clouds of them and they felt like miniature needles."

Stevens and Johnson—veterans in experimental aviation and altitude attempts—had never flown through ice crystals before and after passing through the clouds they dipped back into them to verify their conclusions that the shiny particles were needles of ice.

"We hit the first cloud at 30,000 feet," Stevens said. "Our vision of the earth was suddenly obscured. This was unusual since the sky otherwise was cloudless. We continued ascending. As we went up the clouds became thicker, then we burst into an atmosphere lighted up as though millions of diamonds filled the air. It was like shining on and reflected by the particles."

Stevens said the light cast off by the ice created a "sun dog" aspect, making it appear as though the heavens were shadowed by sun dogs. After going above the clouds and dipping back into them Stevens removed his gloves and goggles to test the particles for hardness and sharpness.

"They felt like little needles trying to pierce the skin," he said, "and we're convinced of one thing. We know little more about our skies but we intend to find out more."

When the two airmen soared above the clouds they encountered the seventy-six degrees below zero temperature. Oxygen tanks supplied them with air and electrical heated goggles and gloves and specially designed suits kept them warm.

Spots on Stevens' face were frozen but otherwise the flyers suffered no ill effects.

YOUTHFUL DOUBLE SLAYER IS DECLARED IN SANE BY JURORS

CANTON, O., Feb. 13.—Edward Fulton dairymen, and his wife, Bertha, is insane, a jury here held today.

The verdict means that Kaitenbaugh will be committed to the state hospital for the criminal insane at Lima and will not have to stand trial on charges of first degree murder.

The verdict, returned sealed, was signed by ten of the twelve jurors who heard testimony at the boy's sanity trial. Signatures of only nine were required.

The Osers were shot to death early last month. Kaitenbaugh was captured a few days later, hiding in his home at Grove City. He was said to have confessed, declaring he killed the couple because he wanted their car to "take his girl riding."

Kaitenbaugh probably will be sentenced to the asylum for life. Attorneys who examined him, testified there is no hope of curing him.

RETAIL MERCHANTS TO OFFER REAL DOLLAR DAY THURSDAY

CENSORING COMMITTEE WILL GUARANTEE SALE DAY VALUES

Merchants Give Profits Away For Return In Good Will And Advertising; Guarantee Quality Of Special Bargains

DOLLAR DAY comes to Xenia Thursday and with it a feast of bargains guaranteed to help make the family pocketbook stretch farther during these waning days of winter.

Dollar Day has come to be a significant buying event in Xenia merchandising circles. Years ago its inauguration was greeted by the most enthusiastic reception ever given a combined selling event in Xenia.

The enthusiasm carried into every section of the county, and crowds swarmed Xenia streets during the bargain day, so that this unique bargain plan was given an auspicious introduction. This beginning served to establish the standard of all future dollar days so that the occasion has always met with well-merited patronage.

Gradually, however, the original idea of Dollar Day has undergone changes. Originally merchants grouped together bargains in articles that could be sold for one dollar. Gradually they began to capitalize the buying enthusiasm by making special discounts on other merchandise. From a sales event designed primarily to help merchants clear their shelves of merchandise, it has come to be a great advertising occasion, when merchants attract buyers to their stores in order that they may be interested in "other merchandise" besides the Dollar Day bargains.

MAKES GOOD WILL
Many merchants have found this advantage of more benefit than the actual sale of dollar articles. For that reason, and to make their stores especially attractive on this buying holiday, they have increased the value of the articles on sale, so that rather than return a profit on this sale itself, they have merely cleared their shelves and

COOLIDGE WILL GO TO NORTHAMPTON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—President Coolidge will leave on the afternoon of March 4 after the inauguration ceremonies for his old home at Northampton, Mass. It was learned at the White House today.

It is not yet determined whether he will be able to leave the capitol in time to reach Northampton that night, but his plans are to go directly to the home of Mrs. Coolidge's mother, Mrs. Lemira Goodhue, as quickly as possible.

ENTERTAINS CLUB
The Rural Improvement Club was received last Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. J. H. Lackey and daughters, Misses Myrtle and Margaret at their country home north of town. The responses to roll call were quotations from Longfellow. After a routine of business the program was opened by Mrs. J. H. Turner, taking for her subject, "Winter Precipitations," giving a well prepared and interesting paper. Mrs. W. H. Rockhold responded with the poem, "The First Snowfall." Resinol
AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.
Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.
Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.
No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.
Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; know them by their olive color.
Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Taken nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.

Since the "Talkies" came, Hollywood is stronger than ever for Old Golds

WALLACE BERRY transport pilot No. 3298, now appearing in "Tong War" tells how the movie stars are guarding their throats with OLD GOLDS.

Why not a cough in a carload?

OLD GOLD Cigarettes are blended from HEART-LEAF tobacco, the finest Nature grows... Selected for silkiness and ripeness from the heart of the tobacco plant... Aged and mellowed extra long in a temperature of mid-July sunshine to insure that honey-like smoothness.

"A year or so ago, Hollywood didn't think much about its vocal chords or its voices. We were all in the silent drama then.
"But the coming of the 'Talkies' has changed things. Lovely stars, leading men, 'heavies' and ingenues are guarding their throats with zealous care... and smoking OLD GOLDS.
"It didn't need the 'Talkies' to win me to OLD GOLDS. I've been smoking them ever since they came to Hollywood, two years ago. But it's an added satisfaction to know they are kind to the voice, when the voice has assumed a new importance!"

RETAIL MERCHANTS TO OFFER REAL DOLLAR DAY THURSDAY

CENSORING COMMITTEE WILL GUARANTEE SALE DAY VALUES

Merchants Give Profits Away For Return In Good Will And Advertising; Guarantee Quality Of Special Bargains

DOLLAR DAY comes to Xenia Thursday and with it a feast of bargains guaranteed to help make the family pocketbook stretch farther during these waning days of winter.

Dollar Day has come to be a significant buying event in Xenia merchandising circles. Years ago its inauguration was greeted by the most enthusiastic reception ever given a combined selling event in Xenia.

The enthusiasm carried into every section of the county, and crowds swarmed Xenia streets during the bargain day, so that this unique bargain plan was given an auspicious introduction. This beginning served to establish the standard of all future dollar days so that the occasion has always met with well-merited patronage.

Gradually, however, the original idea of Dollar Day has undergone changes. Originally merchants grouped together bargains in articles that could be sold for one dollar. Gradually they began to capitalize the buying enthusiasm by making special discounts on other merchandise. From a sales event designed primarily to help merchants clear their shelves of merchandise, it has come to be a great advertising occasion, when merchants attract buyers to their stores in order that they may be interested in other merchandise besides the Dollar Day bargains.

MAKES GOOD WILL
Many merchants have found this advantage of more benefit than the actual sale of dollar articles. For that reason, and to make their stores especially attractive on this buying holiday, they have increased the value of the articles on sale, so that rather than return a profit on this sale itself, they have merely cleared their shelves and

LADY TELLS HOW FAMOUS KONJOLA BROUGHT HEALTH

Brief Treatment With New Medicine Banished Every Trace Of Stomach Trouble

"Konjola means all the world to me for without health, nothing else is worth while and Konjola gave me a new lease on life after years of suffering," said Mrs. David Truman.

MRS. DAVID TRUMAN
man, 215 Paint Street, Washington Court House, Ohio.

"My stomach was in a deplorable condition and even the lightest diet was impossible without gas, bloating, and pain. My kidneys were badly irritated, causing me to get up many times at night. I lost in weight, vitality, and strength, and finally had to go to bed when the spells of indigestion came on I could not attend to my housework and every day was one of misery. I read about Konjola and finally decided to see what this medicine would do for me. Gradually my appetite returned. Imagine my delight when I ate a hearty meal and there was not a trace of indigestion. Then my kidneys came around and I could sleep the night through. In two weeks, I was as well as I ever was in my life. What suffering could be saved if all who are ill only knew of this astounding compound."

Konjola is different from any other known remedy in this section. It contains 25 juices extracted from natural plants, which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys, and bowels to a more healthy action. The effect of Konjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that has been going on for years. At the same time, many weak and rundown systems have been restored to a new state of health through this compound. Such a vast number of men and women in this city have told of their experience with this new medical product, until now, Konjola is the most highly indorsed medicine that is known in this vicinity.

Konjola is sold in Xenia at the Gallaher drug store, and by all the best druggists throughout this entire section.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE ENLARGEMENT OF THE KINGDOM—O Lord, my strength, and my fortress, the Gentiles shall come unto thee from the ends of the earth.—Jeremiah 16:19.

INSURANCE AGAINST WAR

The senate passed the cruiser bill by the decisive vote of 68 to 12, which probably fairly represents the ratio of sanity in this country to unsafe emotionalism. The pacifists attempted to scuttle the bill by insisting that construction be suspended during negotiations with Great Britain for an agreement limiting cruiser strength. There are no such negotiations under way today and no immediate prospect of any such agreement being reached. This was made plain at Geneva two years ago. One trip to Damascus was enough to open the eyes of all but those who are determined not to see. The adoption of Senator Norris' amendment would have made it possible for Great Britain to block indefinitely all cruiser construction in this country by the simple and inexpensive expedient of sending out an invitation to a conference every time congress voted to lay a keel.

The cruiser bill has contained from the beginning a proviso that the president may suspend construction whenever an agreement affecting our cruiser program has been actually consummated. The amendment sponsored by Senators Borah and James A. Reed and accepted by their colleagues places the congress on record as favoring the conclusion of treaties defining the rights and duties of neutrals and belligerents in war at sea. These two provisions of the bill make it sufficiently plain that in preparing to defend our interests in war, we are ready to go as far as the next nation in promoting peace. That is a very different thing from letting our defenses decay, while we are trying to convert armed neighbors to disarmament. The construction of 15 cruisers and an aircraft carrier will still leave us far behind the 5-5-3 ratio, with respect to both Great Britain and Japan; but it will give us something to argue with and, if necessary, to fight with. The description of the cruiser bill as "a bloodthirsty program" shows that pacifists are as careless with the truth as they are incapable of seeing clearly and thinking straight in a world that should be better, but is not. They have been soundly rebuked by an overwhelming majority of the American people, who can still distinguish between patriotism and poltroonery.

One interpretation to President Coolidge's objection to commencing construction on the vessels at once is that he fears that $17,000,000 cannot be found for that purpose before June 30. After five and half years of Coolidge economy, we can't be that poor. As a matter of fact, we have the money; and it looks as if we also had the votes that would be necessary to get the ships over an executive veto.

Bachao Sakao, new king of Afghanistan and former water boy, has named as premier a relative of former King Amanullah. Looks as if Bachao is trying to carry water on both shoulders.

The night lasts six months in the Arctic Circle. It is said a group of Scotchmen are planning an expedition to one of the night clubs there.

Football officials of the Big Ten went on strike for higher pay recently. Maybe they figure they haven't been getting a run for their money.

NEW YORK—One of the mob would have believed that racketeer is getting away with this stunt. He is supposed to clean up from 150 to 200 a week challenging the sportsmanship of owners of cigar lighters. He operates around the Penn Terminal or the Grand Central. When he sees a likely looking chump pull out one of those lighters, he chirps:

"Beitcha five bucks, stranger, it won't work the first time you try."

The stranger usually is a good sport, and accepts the challenge, with the result, of course, that he invariably loses. If he wins, however, he is cheerfully paid.

SHOW BUSINESS—According to those whose racket it is to prowl Broadway and lead those, last week was the most prosperous theatrical week in many seasons. If there is a slump, it was not felt in most of the playhouses, where the better grade of entertainments are revealed.

Some heck it up to the Whelan traffic plan, which has been most successful, while others contend that players are in the mood for diversion again and that the stage menu is better.

But the recent depression ruined one man who planned another production. He was one of the sponsors of "Bunk," a few years back (which, incidentally, was among the first found guilty by the police forces). He will be seen in "Broken Chain," a fourth coming show. He is in the cast as one of the "extras."

THE HIGHEST PRICE

The worst fate that can befall any man is to be the kind of person who concerns himself with the first of the world. He is full of low thoughts. He aims at low and miserable purposes. In his thinking he is a snail and a thief. He stays within the law only by a snake-like cunning. More than one supposedly respectable man in the community has this type of mind and soul. Apparently he may suffer no penalty. Actually he knows, within himself, that he is a failure and that he is a slave to evil impulses. It is a high price to pay.

WHAT CITIES DO

New York has a larger population than all the great states of Montana, Idaho, Nevada, Colorado, Utah, Arizona, New Mexico, Wyoming, North Dakota, and South Dakota. Its population is as large as that of Chicago, Detroit and Philadelphia together. What does this mean to the human race in America? What does it do to people to live in huge cities? A human being living in a thinly populated district. The interdependence and relationships of city life are producing a different sort of individual. It is too early to say whether he will be a human being superior to the one who grew up in the open.

GOAT'S FEATHERS

Some time ago Ellis Parker Butler wrote an article in the American Magazine about gathering goat's feathers. He made the point that many men and women give most of their waking moments to running hither and thither trying to keep up with a multitude of engagements, most of which are comparatively unimportant but which eat up all the time there is. There are so many who thus suffer for the fault of affability. They haven't the plain courage to say no. They agree to go here, there, and the other place; they agree to serve on every committee that is organized. They even undertake to be in two places at the same time. They are late at appointments because they have taken on more than they can do. They take comfort in the fact that they are good, hard working citizens. As a matter of fact, they have no opportunity to do anything well, and thus are not especially good citizens. They spread themselves out thin over many places and cover nothing. Big success comes from concentration.

PLAN TO MOBILIZE INDUSTRY IN TIME OF WAR DISCUSSED

By J. MAYHEW WAINWRIGHT
Congressman From New York

Jonathan Mayhew Wainwright was born in New York City, Dec. 10, 1864. He was graduated from Columbia university, and admitted to the bar in 1886. Practicing in New York City for several years, he was elected to the New York assembly in 1902, serving until 1909 when he was sent to the senate. He served as assistant secretary of war from 1921 to 1923 and was then elected congress from the 25th district. He served in the Spanish-American war, on the Mexican border in 1916 and in France during the World War, participating in all the engagements of the 27th division. He has been awarded the Distinguished Service Medal and several foreign citations.)

I wish to discuss the proposal of creating a joint congressional and civilian commission to report to the next congress a comprehensive plan for mobilizing the nation's industrial resources, equalizing war burdens and minimizing war profits.

A bill known as the Capper-Johnson bill has been pending in congress some years, the result of efforts of the American Legion. The measure was very fully discussed in 1924 before the house committee on military affairs when the secretaries of war, navy and commerce—including President-elect Herbert Hoover—and also the secretary of agriculture and Bernard M. Baruch appeared before the committee. Mr. Baruch of the great factors in the industrial mobilization phase of the World War.

All of these persons approved the principles of the Capper-Johnson bill, but differed as to the form of the measure. The session being raised at the time that there was involved the granting of too much power.

The military affairs committee of the house has been made aware that the American Legion is very much impressed with the necessity for this legislation and congress should give it most thorough consideration. In consulting with Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, the senator raised the question of a combination of congressional and civilian personnel of the committee, but Senator Reed thought the proposal is of such unusual and functional importance that he felt that it would be objectionable. The proposal is such a tremendous proposition that the inclusion of both legislative and private personnel would be advantageous.

BE OUR VALENTINE!

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

I have always believed there was nothing more important to beauty than the general condition of the feet. It may seem a far cry from tired, aching feet to a lined complexion, but if you could only realize it, there is a deep affiliation between corns and wrinkles. Just stop to think a moment. Can you enjoy anything if your feet hurt? You can't sit still, you can't walk, you can't lie down in comfort. Aching feet will spoil your disposition, and they most certainly will spoil your complexion. Even a temporary pain will bring little lines around your eyes and mouth, and although the pain may go, the lines have a habit of lingering. You must keep your feet in good condition if you are going to know what personal contentment is.

The perfect foot is almost an unknown quantity in this generation of high heels and narrow shoes. I know an artist who told me that he considered every part of the human body beautiful, with one exception, and that was the foot. When he was pressed for explanations, he admitted quite frankly that he had never seen a pair of feet which were not disfigured by corns and bunions or the persistent redness which comes from pinching, or the overlapping toes, all of which have as their cause incorrect shoes.

The perfect foot is beautiful, all opinion to the contrary. It lies on the floor with the toes reasonably free from each other, not overlapping, not and curled forward, but pointing straight forward. The arch is high, and the heels flat on the floor, not pressed down in the position which indicates incorrect posture, but light and of springy, with the weight resting mostly on the outer arch of the foot. (Take heed of that word "outer.") Foot beauty means a lot of things—it means strong ankles, high arches, proper position and co-ordination of joints. Do you realize, I wonder, that almost every foot disorder comes from swinging the weight to the inner arch of the foot. Outside of the fact that this is disfiguring, and it most certainly is, the position is so completely out of natural alignment that it causes backaches and pains in the base of the neck and in the hips.

The arches should be high enough to permit you to run your finger in between the flesh of the foot and the floor. Not only should they be that way while you are standing, but they should maintain this position during your walking. The reason that there are so many fallen arches and so few beautiful ankles among women is simply because they will not keep their weight on the outer arch of the foot. When the weight drops to the inner arch, the ankles are pushed out in ungainly lumps, and a small and wholly incompetent bone receives the weight of the body at an angle instead of straight up and down.

Beauty of carriage and grace of movement depend on two factors. First, strong feet, and secondly, healthy feet. Healthy feet depend upon the proper shoes and stockings which insure against the corns, callouses and bunions which are painful and ugly.

We can only develop strong feet when the skin is sufficiently tough to prevent callouses and blisters from forming, and the arches are in sufficiently good condition to prevent the terrible pains and tiredness which develop when they begin to fail. You can make feet strong by a program of proper exercises, and you can make them healthy by ordinary, daily care.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON. — Unpopular as it may be to say so in this country—considering the side we fought on in 1917-18—England is being talked about in our congress today in a fashion as like as two peas to the way the German reichstag talked about her for several years before the World War.

Until recently in the senate, and later in the house of representatives—

Our big navy-ites are making the most of Britain's record for getting into trouble with one nation after another—as each, in turn, waxes powerful enough to threaten to overshadow her.

Recall the past, admonish the big navy-ites—

Spain!—England squashed her away back in the 1500's. France never has been quite the same since Waterloo. Russia!—only the fact that Japan accidentally licked her first saved John Bull the job of going to the mat with the Muscovite menace.

Logically, Nippon was next on the list but Germany crowded in ahead of her.

Maybe the Teutons were quarrelsome. Still, with that record of England's what wonder they were jumpy? Their navy was many laps behind England's. Germany tried to catch up. England hustled to keep her advantage. The race was so expensive that ultimately a war must have resulted anyway—with or without Sarajevo—as cheaper than such competition.

What the big navy-ites want to know is—

If the United States is not now in a position, contrasted with England's, comparable to Spain's in the 1500's, to France's in the Napoleonic era, to Russia's during the late nineteenth century, to Germany's during the first decade and a half of the twentieth, where is she?

would like to see America beaten as flat as Germany was in 1918. But they maintain that there is this important difference—

England felt that she stood at least a fair fighting chance of beating Germany—of course, by dragging a lot of other countries in to help her. She fully realizes that, in the long run, she cannot hope to beat America.

Say the little navy-ites—

Unquestionably force is Britain's traditional reliance, provided she can keep a predominance of it. However, we should credit her with sufficient sense to change her policy when it would bankrupt her to stick to it—and finally mean suicide.

Why not give her an opportunity to climb down gracefully?—to disarm, really?—enabling us to do so, too?—as we want to do. Otherwise she certainly will elect to die gloriously—at enormous expense to herself, to us and to everybody—with her boots on.

The problem is—

Is this cruiser bill of ours a navy-racing gesture?

Heaven knows! Is the answer, as far as I can make out.

Some suet pudding recipes call for one cup molasses and no brown sugar and half molasses. It is not as strong. The amount of ham was planned for three persons. The suet pudding will serve more than that, so that if your family numbers three you will have enough to re-steam for next day.

Today's Recipes.

French Toast—Butter two slices of bread for each person, sprinkle one with sugar and cinnamon and place other slice on and toast both sides under flame. Cut from corner to corner.

Baked Ham—A slice of smoked ham about an inch thick is spread on both sides with prepared mustard and put in a baking or utility dish, covered with milk and baked in a moderate oven an hour or an hour and a half. Stick a few cloves in it before baking.

Milk Desserts Are Good for All VELVET CREAM
(Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe.)

One quart milk, one-half cup box gelatine, three-fourths cup sugar, three eggs. Put the milk in double boiler and sugar at once and reline. When hot add yolks of eggs and cook until gelatine has dissolved and it looks like a thin custard (about ten minutes). Then take from stove and add at once the beaten whites of eggs. Flavor with a teaspoon vanilla. If you are serving this for lunch, better make the day before.

Diet and Health

"Is there any possible method of correcting knock knees except by an operation? There is an appliance on the market which the inventor claims will force the bones of the leg back to a normal position, if worn only at night. He states it will effect the change in from two to six months."

"Are there any exercises which would help? I know several girls who would try most anything to cure their knock knees or bow legs."

"I am practicing your Tummy Ten exercises every day, and although I have always had a protruding stomach, it is actually reducing more and more every day, which is more than enough reward for the few minutes I spend on them."

The fashion of short skirts for women is not only a hygienic fashion and one worth keeping up, but it is also going to make everyone realize the importance of the prevention of rickets in childhood, and the prevention of overweight and underweight.

Knock knees and bow legs are due to rickets in childhood, and these can be prevented by the proper diet and sunshine and cod liver oil. (It not only deforms the bones of the legs, but that of the arms, head and chest. In the chest, it makes a cavity which is known as a chicken or pigeon breast, and funnel-shaped breast.) However, after the bones have their full growth and are set, there is no appliance that is going to bend them it is only when they are in the plastic stage that they are capable of being modified, and that would be before adolescence. Even after early childhood, the bones are difficult to mold, and it requires a long time to do it.

Whitman lists three types of treatment for bow legs and knock knees: The expectant, the mechanical and the operative. The expectant treatment includes proper diet and medication, proper postures, general massage, exercise and manipulation consists of forcible correction of the condition, ten minutes at a time, at least twice a day. The correction should not be to the point of actual pain.

The mechanical treatment consists of properly-fitted braces.

The operative treatment is as its name indicates—an operation in which the bones are put into correct shape. This is the only thing that will change bow legs or knock knees after full growth. You will be interested to know that in 1921, in the Hospital for the Rupture and Crippled, in New York City, there were 159 patients successfully operated upon for condition of knock knees and bow legs.

"My son, 19 years old, plays a cornet three and four hours a day. He has been told that so much pressure used on the lungs would eventually cause tuberculosis. What do you think? He is working his way through school this way, but if it is harmful he must stop it. MRS. H."

I cannot find anything in my text-book that would point to the harmful effects on the lungs from the use of wind instruments, Mrs. H. You might see a lung specialist about this. My own idea is that it would strengthen the lungs, rather than weaken them. Seems to me most of the cornetists I have observed are pretty robust looking.

Living and Loving

BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

It does take a lot of courage to live, doesn't it? No matter how well we live, trouble finds us sooner or later, and some times we are so hard pressed that we think we'll have to end it all. We think we cannot weather the storm. It is surprising what the human heart can bear. I am constantly amazed when I see men and women, clear eyed and poised, whom I know have gone through some devastating experiences.

A short time ago I printed a letter from a young girl whose supposed boy friend had, without warning, sent her an invitation to his wedding to another girl. She thought of suicide, but decided against it. A young man saw her letter and wrote as follows:

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I want to congratulate 'Deserted' on her suicide escape. She is not the only one in such a boat. I've been in the same one and am in it still over a week. I am a little girl of 17 who used to be my own way. Some day we couldn't get along and she filed suit for divorce. I was so wrecked at the news I came nearly doing the same thing as 'Deserted' had in mind. All of a sudden something told me, 'Don't take what you can't give back.' I cried and grieved over her, and do yet at times when I get to thinking of her.

"I heard later that she only married me to get out of school, but nevertheless I have two large pictures of her which money cannot buy, for maybe some day she may return to me, and if she does she will be absolutely welcome. I am a poor fellow of 24, but she is the light of life to me. No other girl will need to apply for her place. If she never comes back I'll be a 'lonely spinster' as 'Deserted' said. Now, 'Deserted,' young man, are not the only ones who fool their companions."

"LONESOME AND BLUE." I congratulate you on bravely going on with life after such a disappointment, and hope the lovely young wife will come back and you will be happy together.

BROWN EYES: It is not necessary for a girl to be pretty to be popular with boys. You can be friendly to the boy and let him see that you like him without acting silly. That is the only way I know of to win him.

DOLORES: You don't need advice, Dolores. Go on as you have begun.

Peter's Adventures

BY MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

PLANNING TO PEEP

Dress rehearsal! What in the world could Mother Grouse mean. Before Peter could ask her, the young birds set up a cry.

"Oh, let's go; let's go!" cried Fear-No-Harm, and all the little Partridges said so. Peter didn't want to be left behind. If there was going to be anything worth seeing, he wished to see it.

"Do you mind if I go along, too?" asked he of Mother Grouse. "Not if you'll be very, very quiet and stay out of sight, where the gentlemen can't see you," chirped Mother Grouse, after thinking a moment. You see, the men have no idea who you are, and their mist might upset them dreadfully. I doubt if they would go on with the performance."

The boy promised to be as still as a mouse, and off the party started, this time heading straight for the heart of the woods.

The drumming grew louder as the boy with Mother Partridge and her brood hurried along. No sooner had they entered the woods than mother held up a warning claw.

"Remember, boy, watch your step, and don't scuffle the leaves any more than you can help, lest Mr. Partridge should hear you. Just beyond is a little opening among the trees and it is there, about the big gray stump, that the Cock Partridges are giving their party. They do not ask the mothers and the children to these afternoon affairs (afraid the children will get unfooted, I suppose)—but if we do nothing to disturb them they will not find fault with our admiring them. Of course, though, you do not belong to the Grouse family, and so you will have to be extra careful."

My husband has a quick temper—you just ought to see him chase any other Partridge out of his domains in the summer. Now that it is autumn, he gets along very well with the neighbors—the children are grown up, you see, so he hasn't time to worry about. I hate fights, and that is why I like this season the best of all the year.

OF COURSE, THOUGH, YOU DO NOT BELONG TO THE GROUSE FAMILY AND SO YOU WILL HAVE TO BE EXTRA CAREFUL

at all surprised if my good husband was already a bit provoked at you for disturbing him this afternoon. He ran away because he didn't feel like talking to a stranger."

He has been awarded the Distinguished Service Medal and several foreign citations.)

I wish to discuss the proposal of creating a joint congressional and civilian commission to report to the next congress a comprehensive plan for mobilizing the nation's industrial resources, equalizing war burdens and minimizing war profits.

A bill known as the Capper-Johnson bill has been pending in congress some years, the result of efforts of the American Legion. The measure was very fully discussed in 1924 before the house committee on military affairs when the secretaries of war, navy and commerce—including President-elect Herbert Hoover—and also the secretary of agriculture and Bernard M. Baruch appeared before the committee. Mr. Baruch of the great factors in the industrial mobilization phase of the World War.

All of these persons approved the principles of the Capper-Johnson bill, but differed as to the form of the measure, the objection being raised at the time that there was involved the granting of too much power.

The military affairs committee of the house has been made aware that the American Legion is very much impressed with the necessity for this legislation and congress should give it most thorough consideration. In consulting with Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, the senator raised the question of a combination of congressional and civilian personnel of the committee. But Senator Reed thought the proposal is of such unusual and fundamental importance that he felt that it would be objectionable. The proposal is such "a tremendous proposition" that the inclusion of both legislative and private personnel would be advantageous.

BE OUR VALENTINE!

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

I have always believed there was nothing more important to beauty than the general condition of the feet. It may seem a far cry from tired, aching feet to a lined complexion, but if you could only realize it, there is a deep affiliation between corns and wrinkles. Just stop to think a moment. Can you enjoy that thing if your feet hurt? You can't sit still, you can't walk, you can't lie down in comfort. Aching feet will spoil your disposition, and they most certainly will spoil your complexion. Even a temporary pain will bring little lines around your eyes and mouth, and although the pain may go, the lines have a habit of lingering. You must keep your feet in good condition if you are going to know what personal contentment is.

The perfect foot is almost an unknown quantity in this generation of high heels and narrow shoes. I know an artist who told me that he considered every part of the human body beautiful, with one exception, and that was the feet. When he was pressed for explanations, he admitted quite frankly that he had never seen a pair of feet which were not disfigured by corns and bunions or the persistent redness which comes from pinching, or the overlapping toes, all of which have as their cause incorrect shoes.

The perfect foot is beautiful. It lies on the floor with the toes reasonably free from each other, not overlapping, and not curled over, but pointing straight forward. The arch is high, and the heels flat on the floor, not pressed down in the position which indicates incorrect posture, but light and springy, with the weight resting mostly on the outer arch of the foot. (Take heed of that word "outer.") Foot beauty means a lot of things—it means strong ankles, high arches, proper position and co-ordination of joints. Do you realize, I wonder, that almost every foot disorder comes from swinging the weight to the inner arch of the foot. Outside of the fact that this is disfiguring, and it most certainly is, the position is so completely out of natural alignment that it causes backaches and pains in the base of the neck and in the hips.

The arches should be high enough to permit you to run your finger in between the flesh of the foot and the floor. Not only should they be that way while you are standing, but they should maintain this position during your walking. The reason that there are so many fallen arches and so few beautiful ankles among women is simply because they will not keep their weight on the outer arch of the foot. When the weight drops to the inner arch, the ankles are pushed out in ugly lumps, and a small and wholly incompetent bone receives the weight of the body at an angle instead of straight up and down.

Beauty of carriage and grace of movement depend on two factors. First, strong feet, and secondly, healthy feet. Healthy feet depend upon the proper shoes and stockings which insure against the corns, callouses and bunions which are painful and ugly.

We can only develop strong feet when the skin is sufficiently tough to prevent callouses and blisters from forming, and the arches are in sufficiently good condition to prevent the terrible pains and tiredness which develop when they begin to fall. You can make feet strong by a program of proper exercises, and you can make them healthy by ordinary, daily care.

WASHINGTON. — Unpopular as it may be to say so in this country—considering the side we fought on in 1917-18—England is being talked about in our country today in a fashion as like as two peas to the way the German reichstag talked about her for several years before the World War.

Until recently in the senate, and later in the house of representatives—Our big navy-ites are making the most of Britain's record for getting into trouble with one nation after another—as each, in turn, waxes powerful enough to threaten to overshadow her.

Unsightly Underrons—Is there any possible method of correcting knock knees exerted by an operation? There is an appliance on the market which the inventor claims will force the bones of the leg back to a normal position, if worn only at night. He states it will effect the change in from two to six months.

"Are there any exercises which would help? I know several girls who would try most anything to cure their knock knees or bow legs."

"I am practicing your Tummy Ten exercises every day, and although I have always had a protruding stomach, it is actually reducing more and more every day, which is more than enough reward for the few minutes I spend on them."

The fashion of short skirts for women is not only a hygienic fashion and one worth keeping up, but it is also going to make everyone realize the importance of the prevention of rickets in childhood, and the prevention of overweight and underweight.

Knock knees and bow legs are due to rickets in childhood, and these can be prevented by the proper diet and sunshine and cod liver oil. (It not only deforms bones of the legs, but that of the arms, head and chest. In the chest, it may cause what is known as chicken or pigeon breast, and funnel-shaped breast.) However, after the bones have their full growth, and are set, there is no appliance that is going to bend them; it is only when they are in the plastic stage that they are capable of being modified, and that would be before adolescence. Even after early childhood, the bones are difficult to mold and it requires a long time to do it.

Whitman lists three types of treatment for bow legs and knock knees: The expectant, the mechanical and the operative. The expectant treatment includes proper diet and medical massage, exercise and manipulation consists of forcible correction of the condition, ten minutes at a time, at least twice a day. The correction should not be to the point of actual pain.

The mechanical treatment consists of properly-fitted braces. The operative treatment is as its name indicates—an operation in which the bones are put into correct shape. This is the only thing that will change bow legs or knock knees after full growth.

You will be interested to know that in 1921, in the Hospital for the Rupture and Crippled, in New York City, there were 150 patients successfully operated upon for condition of knock knees and bow legs.

"My son, 19 years old, plays a cornet three and four hours a day. He has been told that so much pressure used on the lungs would eventually cause tuberculosis. What do you think? He is working his way through school this way, but if it is harmful he must stop it."

I cannot find anything in my text-book that would point to the harmful effects on the lungs from the use of wind instruments. Mrs. H. You might see a lung specialist about this. My own idea is that it would strengthen the lungs, rather than weaken them. Seems to me most of the cornetists I have observed are pretty robust looking.

Living and Loving

BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

It does take a lot of courage to live, doesn't it? No matter how well we live, trouble finds us sooner or later, and some times we are so hard pressed that we think we'll have to do it all. We think we cannot weather the storm. It is surprising what the human heart can bear. I am constantly amazed when I see men and women, clear eyed and poised, whom I know have gone through some devastating experience.

A short time ago I printed a letter from a young girl whose supposed boy friend had, without warning, sent her an invitation to his wedding to another girl. She thought of suicide, but decided against it. A young man saw her letter and wrote as follows:

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I want to congratulate 'Deserted' on her sudden escape. She is not the only one in such a boat. I've been in the same one and am in it still over a lovely little girl of 17 who used to be my wife. Some way we couldn't get along and she filed suit for divorce. I was so wrecked at the news I came nearly doing the same thing as 'Deserted' had in mind. All of a sudden something told me, 'Don't take what you can't give back.' I cried and grieved over her, and do yet at times when I get to thinking of her. "I heard later that she only married me to get out of school, but nevertheless I have two large pictures of her which money cannot buy, for maybe some day she may return to me, and if she does she will be absolutely welcome. I am a poor fellow of 24, but she is the light of life to me. No other girl will need to apply for her place. If she never comes back I'll be a 'lonely spinster' as 'Deserted' said. Now, 'Deserted' young men are not the only ones who fool their companions. "LONESOME AND BLUE."

I congratulate you on bravely going on with life after such a disappointment, and hope the lovely young wife will come back and you will be happy together.

BROWN EYES: It is not necessary for a girl to be pretty to be popular with boys. You can be friendly to the boy and let him see that you like him without acting silly. That is the only way I know of to win him.

DOLORES: You don't need advice, Dolores. Go on as you have begun.

Dress rehearsal! What in the world could Mother Grouse mean. Before Peter could ask her, the young birds set up a cry.

"Oh, let's go; let's go!" cried Fear-No-Had and all the little Partridges said so, too. Peter didn't want to be left behind. If there was going to be anything worth seeing, he wished to see it.

"Do you mind if I go along, too?" asked he of Mother Grouse. "Not if you'll be very quiet and stay out of sight, where the gentlemen can't see you," chirped Mother Grouse, after thinking a moment. "You see, the men have no idea who you are, and catching sight of a stranger in their midst might upset them dreadfully. I doubt if they would go on with the performance."

The boy promised to be as still as a mouse, and off the party started, this time heading straight for the heart of the woods.

The drumming grew louder as the boy and Mother Partridge and her brood hurried along. No sooner had they entered the woods than mother held up a warning claw.

"Remember, boy, watch your step, and don't scuffle the leaves any more than you can help, lest Mr. Partridge should hear you. "It is beyond a little opening among the trees and it is there, about the big gray stump, that the Cock Partridges are giving their party. They do not ask the mothers and the children to these afternoon affairs (afraid the children will get underfoot, I suppose)—but if we do nothing to disturb them they will not find fault with our admiring them. "Of course, though, you do not belong to the Grouse family, and so you will have to be extra careful."

"My husband has a quick temper—you just ought to see him chase any other Partridge out of his domains in the summer. Now that it is autumn, he gets along very well with the neighbors—the children are grown up, you see, so he hasn't them to worry about. I hate fights, and that is why I like this season the best of all the year."

"Mr. Partridge isn't jealous now. But, as I was saying, not knowing anything about you, there is no telling what he would do if he caught sight of you suddenly. Besides, I should not be

Two thousand years ago Aeschylus had the idea occurred to him, might possibly have given the following practical advice to a young couple contemplating marriage: "The only thing you need consider really seriously is whether you are both absolutely honest with each other. There is not much else to worry about."

That is the moral to be drawn from the three-act drama, "Craig's Wife," revived as the initial presentation of the Xenia Little Theater Guild, which a fair-sized audience was pleased to endorse Tuesday night at City Hall Theater.

Women would be particularly drawn by the play, although it is a perfect exposure of one of the most unlovely of their sex. It is all about a woman, a Mrs. Craig, who married a house. She didn't marry her husband. He simply went with the house—as a more or less regrettable necessity. She wanted the house all to herself. So she set about reducing both her husband, his friends and everyone else with whom she came in contact to as negligible factors as possible in the scheme of things.

Miss Esther Muriel Smith, in the title role of Mrs. Craig, must be an exceptionally fine actress. She was put to the supreme test for she had an irritatingly offensive part. Her role was that of a supremely selfish woman; and with the arrogance of the selfish mind, she wants to exclude the whole world from her house—because she can't impose her narrow little order on it.

The room in which the entire action takes place, like all of the other rooms in the house, reflects the very excellent taste and fanatical orderliness of its mistress. Those four walls are the symbol of her selfish exclusion.

The play, although it is as long as an Arctic night, turns out to be what those of the theater call "good entertainment," and it is acted by a company which can be counted on to fill every role naturally, which could put sparkle and life into the annual report of the Acme Drop Forge and Tool Co.

The Guild has assembled a cast full of people like Miss Smith, Harry A. Higgins, Mrs. J. B. Mason and Miss Elsie Canby—full, in fact, of those very people.

The entire action of this drama transpires between 5:30 in the evening and 9 o'clock the following morning. The scene is the living room in the home of the Walter Craigs.

Mr. Higgins gives a fine characterization of the role of Mr. Craig. He portrays the part of an amiable, affectionate young man who eventually discovers his wife is playing dishonest with him and leaves her to her house.

"Mrs. Elsie Canby" is fine as "Mrs. Harold," the housekeeper, who has learned it is just as well to keep a day or two ahead of Mrs. Craig. Another uncommonly good bit of acting is done by Mrs. J. B. Mason as "Miss Austen," aunt of Craig, who has the part of a pleasantly sedate woman, probably of Craig's mother's age. Mrs. Frazier, a neighbor, enacted by Miss Helen Hurley, is a smiling little woman of middle age, talkative and peckish. Given a little encouragement she is one to run on volubly concerning herself.

The remainder of the cast gave excellent interpretations, including Miss Alice Foley, as Ethel Landreth, Mrs. Craig's niece; Miss Helen Ford, as Mazie, the maid; Charles A. Bone, as Billy Birkmire, a friend of Craig's; I. M. Hyman, as Prof. Fredericks, Ethel's fiancé; Harry E. Kierman, as Catherine, a detective; and George W. Swartz, as Harry, his assistant.

The three-act drama, written by George Kelly, was awarded the Pulitzer prize in 1925-26, and had a long run in New York. At that time it was declared to be the most popular choice of a prize winning Pulitzer committee had yet made. Kelly barely missed winning the prize with "The Show-Off" in 1924, and the recollection of his failure then added materially to the popularity of his success the following year.

Bringing as it does the better drama to within reach of the medium-sized pocketbook, continued success is anticipated for the Xenia Little Theater Guild. "Craig's Wife" is the first of a season of four plays to be given by the Xenia Guild. Those attending this production, who did not hold a season ticket costing $2.50, were advised that they may have their admission fee applied to a season ticket for the ensuing three closed performances.—P. SUGGESTS WEIGHED VOTING IN ANTIOCH STUDENT COUNCIL

Votes in the student government election at Antioch College should be weighed according to academic standing as well as by length of residence, according to a recommendation made to officers by President Arthur E. Morgan.

In a letter addressed to the student government, President Morgan suggested this change in the form of voting, which if adopted would give students votes in addition to the one now allowed for each year of residence at the college. This number being multiplied by the voter's scholastic rating. A student of four years' residence and a scholastic average of 3.0 would be allowed twelve votes.

"I am interested in the subject of weighed voting for I think we can never have good government without that principle," wrote President Morgan. "At present the length of residence is the only factor considered. I wish that scholarship might also be recognized in the weighing of votes. At some time in the future, when we are better acquainted with the subject, other matters might be considered."

"I would suggest that students on probation do not vote."

The reason for suggesting scholarship as the next factor to be recognized in the weighing of votes is that, next to length of residence, it is most nearly a matter of record.

President Morgan's proposal is expected to attract considerable attention in the college press throughout the country.

INSTEAD of exercise

on court or links, try the little exerciser in the vest-pocket box for a dime!

Physicians say Cascarets give your bowels as much real exercise as you get from an hour of hard play! They are made from Cascara Sagrada, which stimulates the peristaltic action and exercises the bowel muscles. Oils, salts and ordinary laxatives don't act like Cascarets. These things only produce mechanical or chemical action, which really weakens the bowels.

Every time you take Cascarets your bowels become stronger. That's the reason they give lasting relief from constipation, biliousness, headaches, indigestion, bloating, etc. That's why 20 million boxes are used a year!

"B" cage squad and McKinley 6B, sixth grade champs.

Winners of the first game will meet McKinley 6B at 8:30 o'clock, that night with the city title at stake. Central Junior High will play in the preliminary game at 7:15 p. m. and tentative arrangements are being made to bring McClellan Junior High of Greenfield here for this game.

An all-city team will be selected by a committee headed by Elwood Shaffer, sports writer for the loop. Suitable gifts will be given members of the mythical team.

The silver cup, won last season by Spring Hill sixth grade, will be presented to the winning team by City School Superintendent Louis Hammerle, immediately following the final game. At this time the all-star team selections will be announced. The champion fourth and fifth grade teams will be awarded pennants.

There will be no admission charge for the morning round games, but for the evening contests a fee of fifteen cents for adults and ten cents for all school children will be charged.

Eight rounds were played in the league and a ninth and final round originally scheduled for Saturday was called off because of the fact the floor will be in use for the county tournament the following Saturday.

YOUNG PEOPLE HOLD MEETING TUESDAY; DURNBAUGH SPEAKS

Seventy-five young men and women representing the various Xenia churches, attended the first of a series of union young peoples meetings, at the United Brethren Church Tuesday evening.

Robert Johnson of Dayton, who had been announced as the chief speaker of the evening, was unable to attend, and George Durnbaugh, of Dayton, took his place, speaking on "Success and Cooperation." The Rev. S. L. Brill, pastor of the U. B. Church and the Rev. L. A. Washburn of Trinity, also spoke regarding the opportunities now offered to young people.

Miss Marjorie Hall led in the devotions. Special music was rendered by the junior choir of the U. B. Church.

After the program games were played in the dormitory building, which was decorated in Valentine fashion, and a course of ice cream and cake was served.

The committee in charge of the affair consisted of Mrs. Marlen Newcomer, Miss Glenna Dinwiddie, Miss Marjorie Hall and the Misses Warwick.

The next of the monthly meetings will be conducted at the First M. E. Church in March.

FACULTY WILL PLAY SIDNEY TEACHERS

Having won the 1928 championship of the Xenia Central High School Intra-Mural League, the school's faculty basketball team will endeavor to defeat the Sidney High School faculty quintet in a game on the Armory floor at Sidney Wednesday night at 8:15 o'clock.

The Central faculty team easily beat the freshman, sophomore and senior cagers in the intra-mural league to win the title and is represented by a strong team.

Coach "Pinky" Wilson will be found at center against Sidney with Evjen of Wittenberg and Bogart of Bliss Business College at forwards, and Patterson of Miami and Whitworth of Earlham at the guards.

The Xenia-Sidney faculty game was originally scheduled for several weeks ago, but was postponed to a date more convenient for both teams.

THEATER GUILD HAS AUSPICIOUS DEBUT IN "CRAIG'S WIFE"

Two thousand years ago Aeschylus had the idea occurred to him, might possibly have given the following parable advice to a young couple contemplating marriage: "The only thing you need consider really seriously is whether you are both absolutely honest with each other. There is not much else to worry about."

That is the moral to be drawn from the three-act drama, "Craig's Wife," revived as the initial presentation of the Xenia Little Theater Guild, which a fair-sized audience was pleased to endorse Tuesday night at City Hall Theater.

Women would be particularly drawn by the play, although it is a perfect exposure of one of the most unlovely of their sex. It is all about a woman, a Mrs. Craig, who married a house. She didn't marry her husband. He simply went with the house—as a more or less regrettable necessity. She wanted the house all to herself. So she set about reducing both her husband, his friends and everyone else with whom she came in contact to as negligible factors as possible in the scheme of things.

Miss Esther Muriel Smith, in the title role of Mrs. Craig, must be an exceptionally fine actress. She was put to the supreme test for she had an irritatingly offensive part. Her role was that of a supremely selfish woman; and with the arrogance of the selfish mind, she wants to exclude the whole world from her house—because she can't impose her narrow little order on it.

The room in which the entire action takes place, like all of the other rooms in the house, reflects the very excellent taste and fanatical orderliness of its mistress. Those four walls are the symbol of her selfish exclusion.

The play, although it is as long as an Arctic night, turns out to be what those of the theater call "good entertainment," and it is acted by a company which can be counted on to fill every role naturally, which could put sparkle and life into the annual report of the Acme Drop Forge and Too Co.

The Guild has assembled a cast full of people like Miss Smith, Harry A. Higgins, Mrs. J. B. Mason and Miss Elsie Canby—full, in fact, of those very people, probably of Craig's mother's age. Mrs. Frazier, a neighbor, enacted by Miss Helen Hurley, is a smiling little woman of middle age, talkative and neighborly. Given a little encouragement she is one to run on volubly concerning herself.

The remainder of the cast gave excellent interpretations, including Miss Alice Foley, as Ethel Landreth, Mrs. Craig's niece; Miss Helen Ford, as Mazie, the maid; Charles A. Bone, as Billy Birkmire, a friend of Craig's; I. M. Hyman, as Prof. Fredericks, Ethel's fiancé; Harry E. Kiernan, as Cattle, a detective; and George W. Swartz, as Harry, his assistant.

The three-act drama, written by George Kelly, was awarded the Pulitzer prize in 1925-26, and had a long run in New York. At that time it was declared to be the most popular choice of a prize winner the Pulitzer committee had yet made. Kelly barely missed winning the prize with "The Show-Off" in 1924, and the recollection of his failure then added materially to the popularity of his success the following year.

Bringing as it does the better drama to within reach of the medium-sized pocketbook, continued success is anticipated for the Xenia Little Theater Guild. "Craig's Wife" is the first of a season of four plays to be given by the Xenia Guild. Those attending this production, who did not hold a season ticket costing $2.50, were advised that they may have their season ticket applied to a season ticket for the ensuing three closed performances.—P. SUGGESTS WEIGHED VOTING IN ANTIOCH STUDENT COUNCIL

Votes in the student government election at Antioch College should be weighed according to academic standing as well as by length of residence, according to a recommendation made to officers by President Arthur E. Morgan.

In a letter addressed to the student government, President Morgan suggested this change in the form of voting, which if adopted will give students votes in addition to the one now allowed for each year of residence at the college, this number being multiplied by the voter's scholastic rating. A student of four years' residence and a scholastic average of 3.0 would be allowed twelve votes.

"I am interested in the subject of weighed voting for I think we can never have good government without that principle," wrote President Morgan. "At present the length of residence is the only factor considered. I wish that scholarship might also be recognized in the weighing of votes. At some time in the future, when we are better acquainted with the subject, other matters might be considered."

"I would suggest that students on probation do not vote," said Morgan. "The reason for suggesting scholarship as the next factor to be recognized in the weighing of votes is that, next to length of residence, it is most nearly a matter of record."

President Morgan's proposal is expected to attract considerable attention in the college press throughout the country.

Passed Up!

READ THIS FIRST:

Betty Brown decides she has overdeveloped the mental and under developed the physical side of her attractiveness and takes up dancing to correct this. At a summer dancing school she works hard at her dancing and again meets Andy Adair. Andy was not conscious of her presence in high school, but in the summer school swimming pool is attracted to her and kisses her half against her will.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XII

After Andy Adair had kissed
Betty while they swam in the bathing pool at the summer camp she said: "Andy, I ask you! Was that nice?"

"Wonderfully so!" Andy answered with enthusiasm. "Quite the nicest kiss I ever had. While we are on the subject, you are changed for the better since you came down here."

"In what way?"

"Oh, I don't know!" He waved
his hand vaguely. "In every way.
Going to give me some dances tonight?"

"If you like. Let's go in. It's time I dressed for supper."

They swam side by side to the concrete steps. He walked beside her to the house, not leaving until she entered the door. She was very much pleased at his attentions. In school he represented the city and sporty part of the student body,
while she was the studying class.
He had never before seemed conscious she was on earth.

As Betty finished dressing someone called her downstairs. She descended to find her father and mother had come down on the bus to see her. She introduced them to many of the girls and sat between them at supper. She was glad they arrived when they did rather than half an hour before, when the whole place was filled with girls and men in bathing suits. She felt sure her mother would have been shocked.

With his good-natured sallies,
Mr. Brown was an instant favorite with the girls. They tried to induce him to promise them dances that evening. Betty noticed how even the most careless was very polite
and particular in front of her mother. Most of them had evidently had experience with mothers and knew of what they would disapprove!

At the dance that night she sat with her parents on a big divan explaining who the various people were until the first dance was over.
She wondered who had asked Andy Adair down. As it was customary for each man to dance the first dance with his hostess, she watched. He danced with Vera, a red-headed girl, on the professional stage in the winter.

When the first dance was over he came at once to where she sat with her father and mother and asked her for a dance. She introduced him to them and saw her mother beam as she recognized the son of a wealthy man. Mrs. Brown evidently approved of him heartily.

During the wait between dances he made himself most agreeable, and then danced with Betty. He held her closer than she thought he should, but no closer than other men held their partners, so she made no objection. After a single round of the room she yielded herself to him without hesitation.

He did not talk as he danced, but as the music stopped he whispered in her ear the one word:
"Good!" managing to get into it a word of affection and admiration.

Betty Brown decides she has over-
developed the mental and under developed the physical side of her attractiveness and takes up dancing
to correct this. At a summer dancing school she works hard at her dancing and again meets Andy Adair. Andy was not conscious of her presence in high school, but in the summer school swimming pool
is attracted to her and kisses her,
half against her will.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XII

After Andy Adair had kissed
Betty while they swam in the bathing pool at the summer camp she said: "Andy, I ask you! Was that nice?"

"Wonderfully so!" Andy answered with enthusiasm. "Quite the nicest kiss I ever had. While we are on the subject, you are charged for the better since you came down
here."

"In what way?"

"Oh, I don't know!" He waved
his hand vaguely. "In every way.
Going to give me some dances tonight?"

"If you like. Let's go in. It's time I dressed for supper."

"They swam side by side to the cottage steps. He walked beside her to the house, not leaving until she entered the door. She was very much pleased at his attentions. In school he represented the rich and sporty part of the student body,
while she was the studying class.

He had never before seemed conscious of her existence on earth.
As Betty finished dressing someone called her downstairs. She descended to find her father and mother had come down on the bus to see her. She introduced them to many of the girls and sat between them at supper. She was glad they arrived when they did rather than half an hour before, when the whole place was filled with girls
and men in bathing suits. She felt sure her mother would have been shocked.

With his good-natured smiles,
Mr. Brown was an instant favorite with the girls. They tried to induce him to promise them dances that evening. Betty noticed how even the most careless was very polite
and particular in front of her mother. Most of them had evidently had experience with mothers and knew exactly what they would disapprove.

At the dance that night she sat

"Nobodies Children" is being made both in dialogue and silent versions when Helen Twelvetrees and Frank Albertson in the leads. Other productions for future release are: "Our Daily Bread", with Mary Duncan and Charles Farrell; "Scarehead" with Robert Elliott and others; "Chasing Through Europe" with Nick Stuart; "A Son of Anak", with George O'Brien, Nora Lane and Farrell McDonald; "Joy Street" with Lois Moran, Nick Stuart and others; "Murder Will Out", with Raymond Griffith, Raymond Hatton, Marceline Day and Donald Crisp; "Empty Arms", with Louise Dresser, June Collyer and others; "The Woman from Hell" with Mary Astor; "The Fatal Wedding", "The Lucky Star" with Janet Gaynor; "The Far Call"; "The Exalted Flapper" with Sue Carol; "King of the Khyber Rifles" with Victor McLaglen and Myrna Loy and "The One Woman Idea" with Marceline Day.

It is reported that an unnamed man who visited the sound stage where Corinne Griffith was making "Prisoners" the other day, was warning himself in front of an electric heater, man-fashion, when the silent gong sounded. The gong means no one must move and so the stranger stood there and scorching until released by the release gong. The visitor then leaped from the heater but did not sit down.

Sally Eilers hurt her finger the other day and after trying it up with adhesive, went to see her director, Mervyn Le Roy. When Le Roy saw the finger he promptly warned "Sally, you better stop ringing doorbells!" This is merely added to today's theater fluff as an excuse for publishing Miss Eilers' picture in this column. She is the one with the shoulder.

It was decided at a joint meeting of the speed committees of the county fair associations of Springfield, Xenia, Urbana and London, held at Springfield, to have three stake events in Xenia, Springfield and Urbana.

President Roosevelt passed through Xenia twice Friday going to and from the birthplace of Abraham Lincoln in the hills of Kentucky. His train did not stop here either time.

EDWARD CORNWELL WINS THIRD PRIZE IN ESSAY CONTEST

Edward Cornwell, member of Troop No. 41, Boy Scouts of America, whose contribution in the essay contest recently sponsored by the Xenia District Scout Committee, was adjudged winner of third prize, which entitles him to $1 worth of Scout merchandise. His essay follows:

"WHY I AM A BOY SCOUT"

I joined the Boy Scouts because of the things to learn about woodcraft and many things useful in life. I like the Boy Scouts because it is a world-wide organization and wherever I go I will meet a brother scout who in time of need will give assistance gladly.

I joined because in the Boy Scouts I get to know the best of boys, to go on hikes, to have meetings, and to learn much. There is the "good turn daily" which I think is very useful to train one to be kind and helpful. Then there is the Scout motto "Be Prepared," which is a good motto for I never know when I am going to need something and if I follow the Scout motto I will be sure to have the things I want. A Scout should be always cheerful for with all the fun and good fellows it is his own fault if he is not.

The signalling and first aid are two very important subjects. I think every person should know the fundamentals of first aid and signalling. In case of accident or needing help you could signal to someone. There is also the Scout pace by which one can cover much ground and still not be tired. Fire by friction is a good subject for one does not know when one is going to need a fire and not have any matches. Swimming is also a very important activity and I think every person should know the principles of swimming. And most of all be a sport and be cheerful.

"CARMEN" TO CLOSE OPERA SEASON ON COLUMBUS STAGE

"Carmen", Bizet's colorful opera, will be presented in the new Columbus Auditorium Wednesday evening, February 20, by the Chicago Civic Opera Company in its second Columbus grand opera season. This opera will close the season in Central Ohio. "Faust" and "Thais" being scheduled for presentation in the Auditorium on the evenings of February 18 and 19.

Maria Olszewska, sensational young German contralto, will sing the title role in which many famous actresses have achieved great success. No great opera singer really feels that her career is complete unless she has sung this enchanting and subtle role.

Rene Maizon will sing the part of Jose, the most tragic role in the opera. Giacomo Rimini will have the role of Escamillo, the toreador. Micaela, the lover of Jose, is Marion Claire, the talented young American soprano. Eugenio Sandrini will be heard as Morales. Zuni-ga is portrayed by Antonio Nicolich. Frasquita and Mercedes, Gypsy girls, will be sung by Alice d'Hernandoy and Ada Paggi. The smugglers Dancairo and Remendado will be Desire Defrere and Jose Mojica.

"Carmen" was first produced at the Opera Comique, Paris, on March 3, 1875. Its American premiere was given at the Academy of Music on October 23, 1879. Its popularity is universal and its appeal spontaneous.

STATE OFFICIAL BORN AT CLIFTON

Earle Stewart, Ironton attorney, who was appointed assistant superintendent of insurance Monday by Gov. Myers Y. Cooper, is a former resident of Clifton. His salary will be $4,000 a year.

Mr. Stewart was born near Clifton and was educated at Antioch College, Yellow Springs, and Ohio State University. He was elected to the general assembly from Clark County in 1904 and served in that capacity until 1909.

SCRIBE FINDS DAN CUPID GONE MODERNISTIC

A FEW OF THE BEST SELLERS

By PHIL FRAME

We remember as if it were day before yesterday sitting around the stove with the other members of the Old Guard keening for the old valentines. We got pretty bitter about it. Why, we would demand with that big rhetorical effect for which we later became famous in the three capitals (Augusta, Cheyenne and Baton Rouge), why didn't those persons who deprecate these annual love missives, roll some of the old ones over the barrel and bring them back to life again.

We even had our plans made for renting a lantern and going around looking for some of the old-fashioned ones. But none of our low moanings reached the ears of anyone, apparently.

How the so ever. Shades of St. Valentine, something has happened to the 1929 styles, but far be it from us to go sulking in a corner about it.

Gone are the days when a strong flavor of romance predominated the mail on St. Valentine's Day. On February 14 Dan Cupid, if the styles on display here are any criterion, is going to have a good chuckle.

Valentines are decidedly not going out of fashion as the quick disposal of the lacy, multi-colored creations by Xenia merchants bears testimony, but what a difference in the modern fashions.

"Will You Be My Valentine" seemingly does not hold as much significance these days as it did in less engrossing times. There will be more work for the little bowboy this year than ever before with so many modernistic designs, "friendship" verses and cards for all members of the family as well as the boss at the office, the family physician and even provides a way to send a snooty message to your best enemies.

Frankly, some of the newest styles are modernistic—Cupid's arrow becomes a green-blue-pink-and-

red shaft of color extending from one corner of the valentine to the other, and cutting the heart in the center into tidbits of discs and angles.

There are also many new designs in the humorous cards—not the unkindly, funny ones that came out of the vegetable garden years ago and brought tears to the innocent, blue eyes of the carrot-headed girl or her "turnip"-nosed sister. The 1929 comics are full of peppy quips, but it is all in friendly fun, like the one which pictures a youth in a dunce cap saying: "I may look dumb and all that, but I've got something under my hat." And that "something", investigation reveals when the cap comes off, is the declaration, "You're my one and only thought."

Others of the less serious valentines are cards with small toys affixed—in one, a very athletic maiden exuberantly wields a tennis racket, shouting: "I'll raise an awful 'raquet' if you won't be my Valentine."

"You're my Valentine," "relatively" speaking, is safely sentimental for members of the family. That is typically a design for a sister. Father and mother valentines are also quite the thing this year.

All in all, however, with all the new novelties and fancy creations with modern colorings and up-to-date verses, it is still easy to find a lace heart and a red ribbon and "With love to my valentine" celebrating St. Valentine's Day in 1929 in much the same spirit as in the days gone by.

XENIA IN LIST

Xenia is one of only eleven Ohio cities which have taken advantage of trans-Atlantic telephone service since it was installed, according to H. W. Cleaver, commercial manager here.

During 1928 there were eighty-five calls between Ohio and Europe, Cleveland leading with twenty-three outgoing and eighteen incoming calls, Cincinnati second, Toledo third, Akron fourth and Columbus fifth. Dayton is sixth on the list and Xenia is one of five cities that had one call.

Xenia's lone call was from Paris. The longest conversation was in a call from Brussels to Cleveland, which consumed seventeen minutes. The toll charge was $2.29. The second largest was received at Toledo for fourteen minutes at a cost of $2.24.

method of quick transportation of messages.

Miss Wear, Chicago supervisor and Fred Smith, Xenia, district manager, were present for the cut-over and S. W. Rock, district manager; Mr. Stahlnecker and Mr. Reams, of Springfield, Simplex maintenance superintendent, visited the office Tuesday and saw that the new system was operating properly.

Gene Klock, Xenia office operator who recently completed a course of instruction in the new system at Valparaiso, Ind., has returned to Xenia and W. E. Pittser, Xenia manager, will complete his course in a few days and return here.

The new system eliminates the old system of dot and dash transmission of messages and can be operated by a swift typist who has no knowledge of the intricacies of the old form of telegraph. The sending operator operates a Simplex sending machine from a keyboard similar to a typewriter.

When receiving the machine automatically records the message on gummed tape without the aid of an operator. The operator, however, tears off the tape and sticks it on telegraph blanks for delivery. The machines are complete in themselves, being a combined receiving and transmitting unit, although two are required where messages are sent and received at the same time. The machine when used as a transmitter automatically furnishes a record of the message. They are operated by electric motors.

The transmitter sends out electrical impulses in the form of a code which are in five different classes and combinations of these make it possible to produce thirty-two different characters. The receiver is a decoding instrument which transcribes the electrical impulses back into the printed form again.

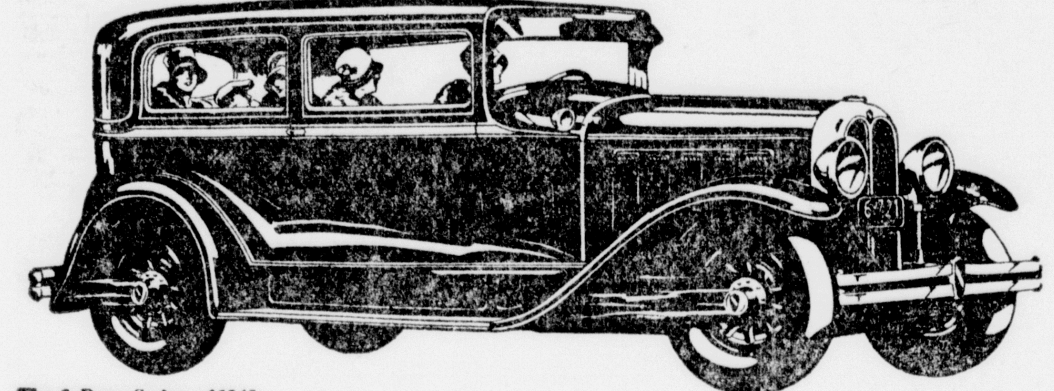

A Morse wire will be retained in the office for emergency use.

The GREATER HUDSON

and Motordom calls for LARGEST HUDSON output of all time

Already in response to the public's demand, production of the Greater Hudson has been increased, and then increased again — by far the largest schedule Hudson ever found necessary.

In their own words, by their marked and recorded ballots, motorists by tens of thousands are telling us the Greater Hudson is truly the greatest of all time.

Voting in every Hudson salesroom in the country, these enthusiastic multitudes have piled up the most convincing endorsement in Hudson history. Perhaps even more important, they have bought these beautiful new Hudsons in such numbers that we must make thousands more of them to insure prompt delivery.

Every experience and suggestion of the world's largest 6-cylinder ownership is incorporated in the 64 improvements of the Greater Hudson.

As co-authors of these creations the 1,000,000 Super-Six owners are naturally first to want to see, inspect and drive them. It is particularly interesting to observe their special satisfaction in the numerous body improvements. In comment, these important developments in body design and appointment, fully equal the more dramatic qualities of the more than 80-mile-an-hour performance.

They definitely set Hudson apart from like-priced cars, just as Hudson performance stands alone among all cars.

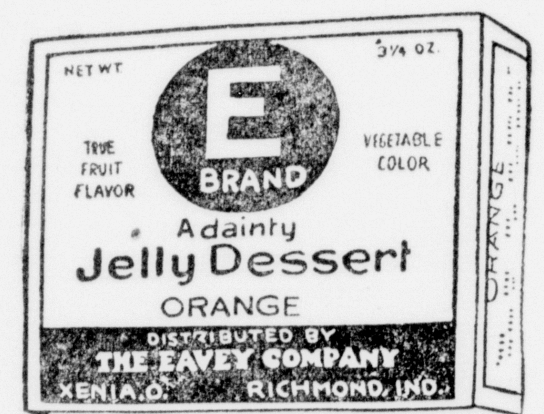

Come, see and drive the Greater Hudson. We believe one ride will make it the car of your choice.

EDWARD CORNWELL WINS THIRD PRIZE IN ESSAY CONTEST

Edward Cornwell, member of Troop No. 41, Boy Scouts of America, whose contribution in the essay contest recently sponsored by the Xenia District Scout Committee, was adjudged winner of third prize, which entitles him to $1.00 worth of Scout merchandise. His essay follows:

"WHY I AM A BOY SCOUT"
I joined the Boy Scouts because of the things to learn about woodcraft and many things useful in life. I like the Boy Scouts because it is a world-wide organization and wherever I go I will meet a brother scout who in time of need will give assistance gladly.

I joined because in the Boy Scouts I get to know the best of boys, to go on hikes, to have meetings, and to learn much. There is the "good turn daily" which I think is very useful to train one to be kind and helpful. Then there is the Scout motto "Be Prepared," which is a good motto for I never know when I am going to need something and if I follow the Scout motto I will be sure to have the things I want. A Scout should be always cheerful for with all the fun and good fellows it is his own fault if he is not.

The signalling and first aid are two very important subjects. I think every person should know the fundamentals of first aid and signalling. In case of accident or needing help you could signal to someone. There is also the Scout pace by which one can cover much ground and still not be tired. Fire by friction is a good subject for one does not know when one is going to need a fire and not have any matches. Swimming is also a very important activity and I think every person should know the principles of swimming. And most of all be a sport and be cheerful.

"CARMEN" TO CLOSE OPERA SEASON ON COLUMBUS STAGE

"Carmen," Bizet's colorful opera, will be presented in the new Columbus Auditorium Wednesday evening, February 20, by the Chicago Civic Opera Company in its second Columbus grand opera season. This opera will close the season in Central Ohio. "Faust" and "Thaïs" being scheduled for presentation in the Auditorium on the evenings of February 18 and 19.

Maria Olszewska, sensational young German contralto, will sing the title role in which many famous actresses have achieved great success. No great opera singer really feels that her career is complete unless she has sung this enchanting and subtle role.

Rene Mason will sing the part of Jose, the most tragic role in the opera. Giacomo Rimini will have the role of Escamillo, the torero. Micaela, the lover of Jose, is Marion Claire, the talented young American soprano. Eugenio Sandrini will be heard as Morales. Zuni-ga is portrayed by Antonio Nicolich. Frasquita and Mercedes, Gypsy girls, will be sung by Alice D'Hermans and Ada Paoli. The smugglers Dancairo and Remendado will be Desir Defrere and Jose Mojica.

"Carmen" was first produced at the Opera Comique, Paris, on March 3, 1875. Its American premiere was given at the Academy of Music on October 23, 1879. Its popularity is universal and its appeal spontaneous.

SCRIBE FINDS DAN CUPID GONE MODERNISTIC

By PHIL FRAME
We remember as if it were yesterday sitting around the stove with the other members of the Old Guard keeping for the old valentines. We got pretty bitter about it. Why, we would demand with that big rhetorical effect for which we later became famous in the three capitals (Augusta, Cheyenne and Baton Rouge), why didn't those persons who deprecate these annual love missives, roll some of the old ones over the barrel and bring them back to life again.

We even had our plans made for renting a lantern and going around looking for some of the old-fashioned ones. But none of our low moanings reached the ears of anyone, apparently.

How the so ever. Shades of St. Valentine, something has happened to the 1929 styles, but far be it from us to go sulking in a corner about it.

Gone are the days when a strong flavor of romance predominated the mail on St. Valentine's Day. On February 14 Dan Cupid, if the styles on display here are any criterion, is going to have a good chuckle.

Valentines are decidedly not going out of fashion as the quick disposal of the lacy, multi-colored creations by Xenia merchants bears testimony, but what a difference in the modern fashions.

"Will You Be My Valentine" seemingly does not hold as much significance these days as it did in less enraging times. There will be more work for the little Bowboy this year than ever before with so many modernistic designs, "friendship" verses and cards for all members of the family as well as the boss at the office, the family physician and even provides a way to send a snooty message to your best enemies.

Frankly, some of the newest styles are modernistic—Cupid's arrow becomes a green-blue-pink-and-

red shaft of color extending from one corner of the valentine to the other, and cutting the heart in the center into tidbits of discs and angles.

There are also many new designs in the humorous cards—not the unkindly, funny ones that came out of the vegetable garden years ago and brought tears to the innocent, blue eyes of the carrot-headed girl or her "turnip"-nosed sister. The 1929 comics are full of peppy quips, but it is all in friendly fun, like the one which pictures a youth in a dunce cap saying: "I may look dumb and all that, but I've got something under my hat." And that "something," investigation reveals when the cap comes off, is the declaration, "You're my one and only thought."

Others of the less serious valentines are cards with small toys affixed—in one, a very athletic maiden exuberantly wields a tennis racket, shouting: "I'll raise an awful 'racquet' if you won't be my Valentine."

"You're my Valentine," "relatively" speaking, is safely sentimental for members of the family. That is typically a design for a sister. Father and mother valentines are also quite the thing this year.

All in all, however, with all the new novelties and fancy creations with modern colorings and up-to-date verses, it is still easy to find a lace heart and a red ribbon and "With love to my Valentine" celebration. St. Valentine's Day in 1929 in much the same spirit as in the days gone by.

XENIA IN LIST

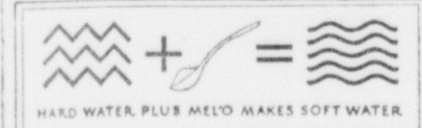

Xenia is one of only eleven Ohio cities which have taken advantage of trans-Atlantic telephone service since it was installed, according to H. W. Cleaver, commercial manager here.

During 1928 there were eighty-five calls between Ohio and Europe, Cleveland leading with twenty-three outgoing and eighteen incoming calls, Cincinnati second, Toledo third, Akron fourth and Columbus fifth. Dayton is sixth on the list and Xenia is one of five cities that had one call.

Xenia's lone call was from Paris. The longest conversation was in a call from Brussels to Cleveland, which consumed seventeen minutes. The last charge was $2.89. The second largest was received at Toledo for fourteen minutes at a cost of $2.24.
